They have in those latter times been dragged from their recesses and ground into powder, as an article of commerce to be exported to Europe. The cereal crops of England are partly produced from the mammified remains of human beings who walked about the streets of Thebes "3,000 years ago." The bodies of venerable Thebansswells in their time-laid to rest in fond anticipation of securing a kind of moral immortality, sold at so much a ton to fertilize the exhausted soil of an island in the German ocean! That is what the ancient Egyptians have got by all their skill in protracting the dissolution of mortal remains. Their marvelous preparations have ended in a favorably quoted-manure!
